Dear Pearl:

We have not made much progress in connection with our Lucile Elliott Scholarship announcements. I finally sent out a tentative draft to U. V. Jones, Kathleen Cheape and Dorothy Salmon for suggestions, on November 16th. My first reply was received a month later from Jones and just before Christmas Kathleen wrote. Dorothy still is not heard from. The only suggested addition was from Jones to the effect that a dead-line should be agreed upon for receipt of applications. In order that we may get moving I am arbitrarily inserting a May first deadline for the 1965 award and am urgently requesting the members of the committee and Jones to let you know immediately upon receipt of this letter if there are any objections. This throws the ball to you, Pearl, to clear it if changes are to be made. I realize that this is a rather late date but we are late getting started.

Kathleen makes the suggestion that the Law Library Journal should be advised of the scholarship and that copies of the notice should be sent to all libraries in the southeast (I assume she meant law libraries) and I agree if you have such a list available. Certainly it should go out to those that are listed in the directory.

Might I request, therefore, that the notice and application be copied and mailed as soon as possible and copies sent to the editor of the Journal?

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

Harriet L. French
